BatBoys

Sandlot ball is back.

The pandemic changed youth sports. And we were unsure if or when we'd get a baseball season in 2021, so we decided to start our own program – a program with a mission to provide opportunities for young people to gather together and practice or play baseball and other activities in a positive and fun atmosphere. The goal was to offer it at no or very little cost to families and players.

Since March 2021, we have served 67 young men and women – from 11 to 16 years old – by offering 70 sporting opportunities and activities. We've given away 54 jerseys and dozens of hats, and have dedicated hundreds of collective hours toward training, coaching, and organizing events.

The pandemic may have changed youth sports but we won't let it change us.

In the simplest of terms, the Bat Boys are a sandlot group of youth baseball players who get together, whenever we can, to play baseball. We might have nicer uniforms and access to better fields than Smalls, The Jet, Ham, Squints, and Yeah-Yeah, but at the core, we want to provide opportunities for youth baseball players to experience the game of baseball in a fun, low-pressure, high-performance environment. And everyone is welcome, always.

Generosity is important to us. That's why we give freely our time, resources, knowledge, and experience. And we look to partner with others who feel the same way. We need financial help for scholarships, equipment, field rental, insurance, and umpire fees. All donations go directly to supporting our mission.
